

A genealogical profile of Daniel Ray

Birth: Daniel Ray was born about 1597, based on his date of marriage.

Death: He died before June 24, 1662.

Ship: Unknown, 1630

Life in England: Nothing is known of his life in England.

Life in New England: Daniel Ray, a seaman, was one of the men who originally came to Plymouth Colony but quickly removed to Massachusetts Bay. On June 9, 1630, Anthony Annable had sold a dwelling house and “garden plot & fence” to Daniel Ray in Plymouth. Some time in 1631, he moved to Salem. There he held various offices, including selectman (1636–7), Assessor (1639/40), Tythingman (1644), and Constable (1639). At his death, Daniel Ray owned property including “a farm of one hundred sixty acres of upland and ten acres of meadow.”

Family: Daniel Ray married Bethia ____ by 1637, and probably years earlier if she was the mother of all his children. They had two children. She was still living in 1662.

Children of Daniel and Bethia Ray:

- Joshua was born by about 1627. He married Sarah Walters on February 26, 1651/2, in Salem and had nine children. She died May 19, 1700.
- Bethia was born about 1630. She married (1) Thomas Lothrop before 1652. She married (2) Joseph Grafton by June 1676 as his second wife. She married (3) William Goodhue by 1685 as his third wife. She died December 6, 1686, leaving no children.

Where do I go from here?

Researching your family's history can be a fun, rewarding, and occasionally frustrating project. Start with what you know by collecting information on your immediate family. Then, trace back through parents, grandparents, and beyond. This is a great opportunity to speak to relatives, gather family stories, arrange and identify old family photographs, and document family possessions that have been passed down from earlier generations.

Once you have learned all you can from family members, you will begin to discover other sources. A wide variety of records can help you learn more about the lives of your ancestors. These include birth, marriage, and death records; immigration and naturalization records; land records; census records; probate records and wills; church and cemetery records; newspapers; passenger lists; military records; and much more.

When you use information from any source — an original record, a printed book, or a website — always be careful to document it. If you use a book, you should cite the author or compiler, the full title, publication information and pages used. Also be sure to record the author's sources for the information. If the author's sources aren't provided, you will have to try to find the original source. Many genealogical works contain faulty information, and the Internet also contains many inaccuracies. In order for your work to be accepted — by lineage societies and other genealogists — it must be properly documented.

IMPORTANT GENEALOGICAL RESOURCES
